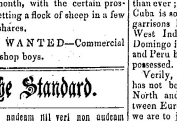
SUNDAY, JULY 3, 1853.



THE FOURTH OF JULY.

It is in vain that we attempt to dissemble our grief at the distressing condition of the once happy United States on this its Eighty-Eighth Birth-Day. The sad spectacle of ruin and desolation which North America presents on this memorable occasion should indeed be sufficient to exonerate us from a duty which has ceased to afford us any but the most painful emotions.

But out of courtesy to our American friends we try to shake off the gloom which the news by the last packet has created, and, still clinging to the hope that better times are in store, we join in the shout of "Long live the United States, the land of Liberty, and the home of the Free."

The unhappy civil war which now, for the last three years, has desolated that country, proves too clearly the frightful consequences which attend the triumph of democratic passion, the decline of political morality, and the rebellion of the South establishes beyond all manner of doubt, the unwieldly debility of democratic power. Democratic zeal and democratic money have alike proved ineffectual in auelling a rebellion which, we regret to say, seems to be prosecuted more for the purpose of pandering to European jealousy than for the honest assertion of liberty, where despotism was never known.

We would fain shut our eyes to the sequel of the present struggle, but the news by last packet has dashed from us the last hope we cherished. The dismemberment of the Union seems now inevitable, and with it perishes the vain illusion of Monroe. The world is witness that what the combined powers of Europe never dared to attempt the discussions of republicans themselves have effected. Although true republican must weep over the fate of the impartial philosopher will find it difficult to decide whether humanity is a loser or gainer by the result.

The enemies of America may possibly wish to see the Southern Generals [illegible] over Washington, and the Government which he established, receive our sympathies on this sad 4th of July. Had the inspired advice of the Father of your country been attended to, who can put limit upon what the United States would have been this day! But strongly as we seize the present opportunity of reminding our readers that an appeal has been made upon their charity to assist the Board of Sanitory Inspection, we feel that with our American friends in helping to alleviate their many sorrows. Every purse, we feel sure, will be open, every hand ready, every heart willing to charitable, a labour; we must all, indeed, no matter to what nation we belong, be very much ashamed of us if we forget the generosity of America in the days of her prosperity.

EDITOR'S TABLE

There is great work going on in Congress at present, and an opposition party is at last raising its head. On Friday the House threw out Mr. Thornton's petition, to examine into the claims of British subjects for damages caused by Rosas shutting the port of Buenos Ayres. On the same day a fierce dispute occurred as to where the real wealth of the Republic lay. One deputy insisted that it was in the camp, whilst another argued that it was in the rivers, and particularly in the Upper Uruguay, where a rare steamboat company existed. Both parties were right, and that a miserable pittance of Government patacons per month, for aiding a steamboat company to develop that wealth, was not out of the way.

Colonel Vedia has stepped out from the ranks to take up Minister Gelly's cause. We understand that a committee is to be named by the Government, to inquire into the charges preferred by Montesquieu Pinero; apropos, we wonder if Pinero ever read Gibbon, if he did, he must remember the character which this distinguished historian gives of George of Cappadocia.

The National Government seems at last anxious to do something towards fomenting immigration. A society has been formed by order of the President, to Rosario, to defray the expences of sending immigrants into the interior. The names of the Board of Directors appointed inspires confidence—

Sr. Frias, Sr. Grognet, Sr. Castellanos, Dr. Perkins, Sr. Corvalon, Sr. Parado, Sr. Larraga.

If we think the Government begins [illegible] wrong end, Instead of paying [illegible] immigrants from Liverpool abound, the Presi[illegible] ill do to get them from [illegible] where there are none. [illegible] read in the editor's [illegible] June, has withdrawn

It is to be hoped that passion has at last done its worst, and that men will now listen to reason. The inexorable jealousies of the South have brought mourning into every family in that region. The peremptory refusal of all concessions by the North has razed towns and cities.

Previous to the commencement of this lamentable struggle, the footholds of Europe in America were extremely slender. The possessions of Russia were confined to the frigid zone; British sway in Canada was so very precarious that the Home Government almost ceased to have any influence from Labrador to the Pacific. Cuba was ripe for revolt, the whole West Indian Islands were ready to follow in a mass, European possessions upon the Spanish main were so insignificant, yet expensive, that had a Walker set his foot upon French or British Guiana, neither Government would have thought it worth their while to oppose him. Democracy was making such headway that the empire of Brazil was in danger of dismemberment. In fact, from Cape Horn to the Bay of Fundy, republicanism under one shape or other was either actually in existence or in a state of embryo.

But since the memorable battle of Bull's Run what a change has come over every inch of America! Some republics have ceased to exist, and on their ruins either colonial governments or constitutional monarchies have been established. Canada is now more loyal than ever; Brazil is firmer than before; Cuba is so attached to Spain that the garrisons have been lessened. The West Indian Islands are quiet, Santo Domingo is now a Spanish possession, and Peru has lost the only jewel she possessed.

Verily, the war in the United States has not been a struggle between the North and the South, but a fight between Europe and America, at least if we are to judge by the results.

Americans, ye who still cling to the blood-polluted Constitution of Washington, and the Government which he established, receive our sympathies on this sad 4th of July. Had the inspired advice of the Father of your country been attended to, who can put limit upon what the United States would have been this day! But strongly as we seize the present opportunity of reminding our readers that an appeal has been made upon their charity to assist the Board of Sanitory Inspection, we feel that with our American friends in helping to alleviate their many sorrows. Every purse, we feel sure, will be open, every hand ready, every heart willing to charitable, a labour; we must all, indeed, no matter to what nation we belong, be very much ashamed of us if we forget the generosity of America in the days of her prosperity.

Both parties were right, and that a miserable pittance of Government patacons per month, for aiding a steamboat company to develop that wealth, was not out of the way.

Colonel Vedia has stepped out from the ranks to take up Minister Gelly's cause. We understand that a committee is to be named by the Government, to inquire into the charges preferred by Montesquieu Pinero; apropos, we wonder if Pinero ever read Gibbon, if he did, he must remember the character which this distinguished historian gives of George of Cappadocia.

The National Government seems at last anxious to do something towards fomenting immigration. A society has been formed by order of the President, to Rosario, to defray the expences of sending immigrants into the interior. The names of the Board of Directors appointed inspires confidence—

Sr. Frias, Sr. Grognet, Sr. Castellanos, Dr. Perkins, Sr. Corvalon, Sr. Parado, Sr. Larraga.

If we think the Government begins [illegible] wrong end, Instead of paying [illegible] immigrants from Liverpool abound, the Presi[illegible] ill do to get them from [illegible] where there are none. [illegible] read in the editor's [illegible] June, has withdrawn his paper money project, simply because the Government opposes it. We cannot say that we approve altogether of such extreme political sensibility; however, Sor Riestra has now thrown the onus on the Government, and if our Provincial Finance Minister allows the session to close without introducing some measure to redeem the currency he will be obliged to resign, in the same manner as his pristine colleague.

The Municipality of Zarate has sent in fifty thousand dollars to the Bank, to be set apart for building public schools in that thriving little town. This speaks well for the public men of Zarate, and reflects the highest credit on our active friend Don Manuel José de la Torre, the president of that body. We trust that the Provincial Government will put another fifty thousand to the above sum, so that a decent building can be erected for so desirable a purpose.

A friend of ours has called to say that he has a square league of land adjoining Mr. Fair's estancia in the Banda Oriental, which has a good brick estancia house on it, seven hundred cattle and a few thousand fine sheep. The place will be sold at a dead bargain, as the new owner, who has inherited the place, prefers residing in the city to becoming an Oriental sheep farmer. We have a map of the land at our office.

It was rumoured through the town yesterday that a "capataz" of the Southern Railway had evaporated with one hundred thousand dollars, which he had received at the office to pay the men. We don't know what truth there is in the report.

Argentine boilers, up to the present, don't prove the things. We hope, when Mr. Gidlow was over, that he put as many produce as good a steamboat boiler as our friends in Paraguay, but the last one made has proved a failure. The 60-Feller Colon burst the other day, and had to be towed into one of the river ports. We have not heard whether the accident was so disastrous as that of the "Telegraph," but if Don Sambo so melodiously narrates in the popular song of "Oh Susannah, don't you cry for me."

Mr. Marshall, in Barracas, is building another steamer, the engines and boilers out from England. She is intended for the Parana trade, and will be a little smaller than the Era.

The diligences from the country towns in the South now invariably, when they arrive at the Barracas-bridge, hire bullocks, as the roads are so bad that the horses are no use. For the last month the diligence, except Hummel's celebrated wagon, has been put into town, drawn by horses. The Boca road is now even worse than the Calle Larga in Rosario, and the produce sent into the Government, praying that the former be at once paved.

A first class English boarding-house, we hear, will shortly be started in one of our fashionable streets. We hope it will be well supported.

The French mail closes on Monday, at 12 o'clock. The mail numbers are delivered to subscribers this morning.

A new native company, for establishing steam lighters in the harbour, is being formed. Some of our Argentine friends, it appears, have taken the hint from Messrs. Pato and Betts, who are sending out shortly a number of steam lighters; apropos, we wonder what detains these steam-tugs more than a fortnight ago they were in Pernambuco.

The news from Bragado, strange to say, is not as good as could be expected. The prospects of crops in all the camps in that partido now are not as good as last summer; whilst an Irish estanciero, from the Fortin de Areco, positively declares that the Areco farmers are now complaining of having too much grass, as it injures the sheep's hoofs.

The new traction engine, 'El Buey,' is at last en route for Buenos Ayres. It was shipped on board the Liverpool steamer which left on the 1st of June.

The view of the Inauguration of the Southern Railway in the "Illustrated London News," is the most miserable attempt we have ever beheld. We wonder our colleagues praise so monstrously their own work.

The Paraguari leaves this morning for Paraguay. Our friends in Asuncion will learn, with joy, that prices for Paraguayan produce are on the rise, and that there is every prospect an export demand will spring up, as our own produce is nearly exhausted.

The contractors of the Southern Railway, we hear, are pushing ahead too fast: they have 12 leagues of earthworks already finished, and the rails to be laid on one, but owing to the continuous rains, the workmen have to work knee-deep in water in many parts. The agent of the contractors, we are told, regards it advisable not to continue employing so many men at such high wages during the rainy season. We hear that the Western Railway, which pays less wages than the Southern, has more applications, owing to the work being less slavish.

Organisation of Public Credit

Just 12 months ago the Argentine Congress, after long and stormy debates sanctioned a law with the above title. Since then the public has waited with anxiety for the National Executive to put in force a measure so imperatively demanded by the private interests of many persons and by the credit itself of the Argentine Government. The blame of such delay is usually thrown on the present Minister of Finance who has hereby shown so little regard for justice and good faith. Now that his bill is no longer clad in the terrifying forms with which its opposers sought to invest it, a circumstance offers for enhancing the rising credit of the Nation.

By taking to a foreign market the Bonds of the Nat. Government, we shall not only give a patent proof of the faithful fulfilment of our compromises and the prosperous condition of the country, but moreover create a source of riches for any future emergency of monetary affairs. But apart from such general advantages, let us consider the effects of the law in detail.

In the River Plate interest always ranges so high, as almost to check mercantile transactions. We read in the banking circulars that money is worth 12 to 15 p. cent per annum How then can we expect capitalists to invest in Public Funds which only give 6 p. cent.? In fact the only object in buying such Bonds would be to speculate on their rise or fall: this after all is only gambling and can never seriously improve their credit. Moreover such gambling principally affects the holder and State, and transactions would be made at one third of their expressed value.

In London and the other great monetary capitals of Europe interest, in normal times, seldom touches 6 per cent the rate payable on our Bonds, which if negotiated would rise at par or command a premium of 1 or 2 per cent, like those of Brazil or Chile with interest 5 and 6 per cent.

The objection, that this would put us under English control, is hardly deserving notice, betraying an ignorance of the history of passing events. All the nations of Europe and S. American republics negotiate their public Debts in London, without having up to the present moment any connection with the British Government, or affording a pretext for British aggression. Nay, so strong are the monetary and political relations that we see the Brazilian Bonds in London command an unusual premium even when diplomatic relations are interrupted.

The Minister of Finance is bound to put in force Article 28 It is formally passed into law——that is sufficient. The Bill which he had at first was laid before Congress it had the full approval of the whole Cabinet, on which now falls the responsibility of the financial department in this particular.

The Government has given to its creditors Bonds which up to the present are selling under half their expressed value. On whom lies the charge of fraud? The cabinet is a collective body, and its responsibility is equally implicated. If the Minister of Finance is opposed to the measure which his predecessor carried into law, let him throw up his portfolio and save his colleagues from the just indignation of the people.

Let President Mitre take into account how much the public interests are compromised by the fault of one of his ministers. Let him exert his energies towards the fulfilment of the measure which he cannot abandon without incurring the gravest censures of an upright public opinion.

AMBICUS.

AUDACIOUS ROBBERY

On Friday night the store of Mr. Francis Mahon, Paseo Julio, was broken into. There is no trace of the burglars, but the robbery is such that there are some suspicious circumstances calling for investigation, if our authorities seriously think it ever worth while to investigate such matters.

The store in question is two or three doors from the Capitanía del Puerto, where a guard is mounted day and night. People on the bench are little scrupulous in saying that it is impossible the doors could be broken open without the knowledge of the sentinel, unless indeed that functionary were so accommodating as to allow the robbers to cut off his nose without knowing it until he appeared on parade next morning. Even were he rapt in profound slumber it is hard to think that the wrenching of locks, and breaking open of doors, at his very ear, did not claim any attention. Of course we entirely lay aside the Police Department, that body having fallen into such abeyance as to be esteemed a perfect humbug.

Some months ago the store of Corti Rivas adjoining the Capitanía was broken into, and several articles including glasier's diamonds were stolen. The thieves were of course never found, but it was rumored that they were not very distant from the scene of outrage. It is an unlucky coincidence that such robberies should happen so frequently in alongside a barrack, as the guardians of public order will incur rather a suspicious connivance.

We are happy to learn that the burglars found nothing in Mr. Mahon's store, the till having been emptied the night before by its prudent owner, and they did not take the trouble to carry any merchandise. Nevertheless the outrage is the same, and if Mr. Mahon had been robbed of all in the world, he must look in vain for satisfaction. Mr. Mahan is an old resident and entitled to some protection from the country; we insist on a rigorous enquiry.

THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

The proceedings of the courts in this country are seldom or never published, and unhappily society is deprived of one of its chief safe-guards against judicial tyranny or corruption. In England not only all the high courts of Justice, but even the smallest matters brought before a rural justice of peace, are exposed naked to the world, nor have we reason to blush for such healthy ventilation.

In an obscure column of the most obscure of our daily papers we find the judicial list, which seldom claims the eye of any reader, but which affords room for gloomy reflection.

Miss Jane Young is summoned as witness for the trial of Juan Manuel Lopez, who murdered Mrs. Isabella Young in the district of Quilmes.

Don Isidoro Cordoba, (residence not known) is summoned to give evidence against Teofilo Hernandez, charged with the murder of Geronimo Cayarno, in the district of Vcdino, last December. Seven months have elapsed, but probably the trial will be prolonged till next year.

Manuel Perez is summoned for the third time to deliver himself up to arrest in the prison of San Nicolas for the slaying of murdering Don Francisco Corvalan, (date not mentioned). It is not at all likely an assassin will come with a rope around his neck begging to be hanged, yet this is the formula.

Agustin Toledo, another fugitive, is politely requested to answer for the murder of Miguel Posadas, (no date,) at San Nicolas. He is probably roaming about the camps.

José Albornoz is summoned for cattle stealing at San Nicolas, but as he has despised the first summons he hardly means to attend.

Roman Moreno is cited for stabbing and wounding at San Nicolas. No attendance to first and second summons.

Agustin Gomez is notified that in his absence he has been found guilty of cattle stealing with Celestino Rodriguez. The sentence, folio 63, is confirmed, but we know not what it is, nor does Sor Gomez much care.

ROSARIO MAILS.

SALTA HAS FALLEN!!!

We have received the 'Ferro-carril to the 1st inst. The mails from Salta and Tucuman arrived in Rosario on Thursday night, with dates from the first place to June 4th. Governors Uriburu (1 and 2), with their numerous relatives, the Federal garrison under Alfaro, and all that ilk, were ejected by Bedoya (Pres. of Legislature), who took possession of Salta on the 3rd, at the head of 4,000 men, allowing the enemy quietly to retire. This is exactly what we predicted, and peace is now restored, Bedoya announces in a despatch from the Governor of Jujuy. The National Government is bound to take Major Alfaro to task for supporting the Governburu coup d'etat, and concocting those mendacious despatches about his having annihilated Bedoya's army.

There is no news from Tucuman or the other provinces. The Chilian mail has not arrived, and it might be premature to expect the return of the Peruvian Chincha Islands, as we have no news yet that Peru has made the slightest effort to fight the plucky little Spanish garrison of 1000 men, although the latter are 4000 leagues from home or reinforcements.

The collections for the Cordoba railway continue actively. The new paper, 'El Rosario,' has not yet come out: it is not wanted, and we hope may prove its abortion. A new Peruvian steamer will take place in the Plaza of Rosario on the 9th inst.

GREAT NEWS FROM CORDOBA.

Retreat of Messrs. Boyd & Dugald.

Seventeen hundred shares of the Grand Central stock have been taken in Cordova, of which 900 is by the Provincial Government, and 100 by the Municipality, and it is confidently expected the number will reach two thousand in a few days. The citizens hail the enterprise with enthusiastic fervor.

Messrs. Dugald and Boyd suffered the most unmitigated beatings on the road. When starting from Rosario they had agreed for a private carriage, were obliged to take the diligence, owing to want of horses. At the posthouses they could get nothing to eat, but had luckily a loaf of bread in their luggage. One of the more impatient passengers took out a revolver, at a post-house, and threatened to shoot — a sheep — unless the owner of the same permitted it to be starving him. Our countrymen had to sleep on bare bricks. On their return the diligence struck foul with 14 passengers and a cart with produce annexed: the passengers were forced to walk for two days and a night, the posts remaining fixed with the cart. Some of the latter were 36 hours without food. The roads are not bad, but there is a total want of horses, and great complaints are made respecting the post-house arrangements.

Our countrymen, on arriving yesterday, were cordially welcomed by crowds of friends: they look much improved after their journey. According to their glowing accounts of Cordoba, this province is able to keep not one but two railways in constant work.

LUISA MILLER

The beautiful and tragic romance of Schiller, set to music by the great master Verdi, was performed at Colon theatre on Friday night. As it is ten years since its last performance in B. Ayres it enjoyed almost the novelty of a new opera, yet the house was miserably thin, the audience hardly numbering 500, perhaps owing to the unfavorable weather.

The overture was well played, the music partaking of a strange wildness, quite in keeping with the story.

Mme. Mollo was the graceful heroine, the village bolle enamored of the gallant Rodolfo (Lolmi), and she sustained the whole rendering of the opera which may be said to fall entirely on the prima donna. The opening chorus "Il desir" was sung in excellent time. The affectionate scene "A te d'appresso" between the lovers was a charming duet. Luisa (the latter's father) sang "sacra la scelta" with great feeling. As usual "the course of true love never does run smooth" and Rodolfo the father opposes the match to the Duchess, when he apprises him pledging his hand in the peasant's cabin

Act II brings the terrible interview between the traitor Wurm and Luisa, in which the latter learns that the Count has condemned her father to death unless she renounces Rodolfo and pretend affection for Wurm. Mollo's acting of the awful sacrifice was perfection, and the scene of "tu punisci" was most sweetly sung. Scene III was omitted, the vocalist performing the part of Duchess being quite unequal to the task, Celestina Degli Conti admirably. Lolmi gave the solo "mi tradia" tastefully.

Act III was also shorn of the 1st scene, but the ensuing duet between Walter and Mollo made amends, and was loudly applauded. Rodolfo meets Luisa just as he is about to espouse the duchess, and believing her false poisons both himself and Louisa. The latter sings "pingat piangi" which is the finale of the opera, and the lovers expire in each other's arms just as the guilty Count arrives to see the defeat of all his ambition, and Luisa's father falls a victim to his love.

The opera is weak compared to the plot, there being few good songs and we hardly think it will prove a favorite with our public.

OLIDEN BEEF

We have been requested to mention some circumstances respecting the dried beef which overboard at Liverpool in a putrid state. Mr. Olden says that his first despatch of beef this year from the River Plate for Liverpool was on the 7th May per steamer Una, the rest following per Kepler. It is clear, therefore, that we cannot have account of such shipments before the month of August. It seems, however, that a certain Sor Bircben exports fresh beef (now dried) from Montevideo, and he has lately taken the liberty (says our informant) to export to Rio Janeiro beef from lots sent to him from Brazil. It seems the best in question was from the same house, and hence possibly the mistake. Sor Olden sold his last shipment to Messrs. Smyth Sons of this place, which was remitted as above. His former shipments were invariably by sailing-vessels, so that it is impossible the beef in question could be genuine Olden preparation.

The Louvre Table-d'hote

The proprietor of the Grand Hotel du Louvre has taken it into his head to start a table d'hote, on the principle that what is good for Parisians must be so for Porteños. M. Louis began on Friday, but only five attended, and it will possibly require some weeks or months to bring our citizens into this more amiable and comfortable manner of performing the great work of the day—dinner.

The saloon, on the night, is nicely fitted up and lighted, and the table arrangements faultless. Nothing could be better than the bill of fare served up, and the wines were first-rate. Every day at five o'clock (precisely) a capital dinner may here be obtained, and this is a decided improvement, for heretofore in B. Ayres sufficient importance was not attached to dinner. Nay we remember "the rules of the house" obliging us to fast till next day.

M. Louis has introduced a notable improvement, and in animating him to persevere in his intention we would suggest for a motto over the saloon-door "men's conscia recti."

STOP THIEF

$500 reward

On last Tuesday night some ruffian cut off one of the ears and shaved the tail and mane of a horse belonging to Mr. Archy Craig, cuartel 3, partido Carmen de Areco. The school master of the family had gone to a neighboring pulperia, and it is suspected some gauchos there committed the felony as a practical joke on a 'gringo.' The Justice of Peace was so kind as to offer Mr. Craig a paper authorising him to keep his horse——whenever he found him.

The above reward will be given on recovery, not of the horse, but of the miscreant.

The depreciation of paper money is so steady that people are again beginning to be alarmed. If there was any revolution going on, or the prospect of any now emissions being made, we could better understand it; but, on the contrary, peace reigns throughout, and so far from any new emissions, four millions of the currency are to be burned on Monday. In the face of all this, and in the absence of any important purchase or sale of specie, the currency has risen twenty to 30$ per ounce. When we get to that point, probably Mr. Lanus' prophecy respecting the indignant tinker will prove true.

It is with the deepest pain that the Government scheme for redeeming the paper money which was introduced last session will, in consequence of Snr. Elizalde withdrawing his scheme, now be passed; but the general opinion amongst merchants is that the Government plan, without a loan being effected, is totally useless.

People are now beginning to open their eyes to the fact, that in Montevideo they are far ahead of us in monetary matters. Had we been struggling with a revolution, like the Montevidean Government, for the last year or so, and, what would be the price of ounces? We venture to say, that they would be considered cheap at 700 dols. mlc. Notwithstanding the enormous expense to which the Montevidean Government had to meet, the paper money has not fluctuated a centessimo, and the Government Securities have, owing to the punctual payment of interest and amortization by the Banco Maua, actually increased in value more than per cent. since the commencement of the revolution. We call attention to these figures and these facts, so that impartial men can form their own judgment on the matter.

Owing to the French packet leaving a week before her time, there has been very little done in Exchange on England or France. The few bills which have been negotiated, have been done at former quotations. The price of produce is unchanged, except that we remark dry hides very weak. Wool is in demand, and looked for, but there is scarcely any in the country.

A very important trade auction will take place at Messrs. Getting and Co., No. 66, Calle Defensa, on Tuesday and Wednesday next; it will be one of the largest auctions of the season, and, we have no doubt, will be well attended by the dealers.

THE CAUSE OF STRAINING.

It does not suffer who reads Coccilalin, Indigestion, Costiveness, Flux, Dyspepsia, &c., would use Dr. Rahway's Anti-Bilious Pills, which are composed entirely of herbs, and would avoid the unnatural habit of straining and quickly rid themselves of the disease. Experience has found, from upon the patient when at stool, is caused by the irritation of the internal membrane of the rectum, and that all other remedies only relieve, while the Anti-Bilious Pills act in the stomach or exert the least influence on the liver, but are carried into the lower bowels, and by their diuretic and stomachal influence occasion irritation, and instead of causing a continuation of evacuation, cause a contraction of the bowels, which recover gradually, without the aid of any other medicine. Dr. RAHWAY'S PILLS, are the only safe pills to take—they are purely vegetable, and act on the bowels. One to two will convince anyone that the most popular of pills is nauseating poison.
